

Carol Newman off to Devon

Carol Newman, our Grants and Research Director, has made the difficult decision to leave the organisation in order to live closer to her family in Devon. She began working for the Dr Hadwen Trust in 1992 as a Scientific Assistant involved with the grant-giving process for the funding of non-animal research. Throughout her time at the DHT, Carol saw the charity grow enabling it to provide increasing numbers of grants and last year, we had the largest intake of grant applications in our entire 40-year history. She was also involved with many other aspects of the charity's work including fundraising appeals and supporter relations.

Carol developed close relationships with our grant holders, personally liaising with them on a regular basis and greatly assisting in raising awareness of the DHT's work within the scientific and research communities. She will be missed by all.

Carol said "I am sad to be leaving the Dr Hadwen Trust as the charity has been like a family to me for many years. However, I am delighted to be relocating to Devon to be closer to my own family and I am very excited about the next chapter of my life."

Kailah Eglington, Chief Executive Officer, said: "Carol leaves an outstanding legacy behind her and we are very grateful for all the hard work and dedication she has shown over the past 18 years. Although we are deeply saddened to see her go, we know that she will remain with the DHT in spirit. I hope you will all join me in wishing Carol immense good luck on her new journey and thanking her for her outstanding contribution to the DHT."
